Dear HTX Labs,

I discovered you on LinkedIn and grew a fondness for your work. The training systems that were developed to help train soldiers sparked my interest. Each of the training simulations is of excellent quality and inspires me. I have been working in Unreal Engine 4, and I desire to join your team.

I have developed games in groups of six people and learned how to work together. On my GitHub, I have finished projects that use Unreal 4. I have been learning object-oriented programming with blueprints while in school. And after seeing your training simulations, I want to learn more and make something great.

I hope to hear back from you. Thank you for your time and energy to read my letter. And wish you the best for your day.

Sincerely,
Jasper Thibodeaux.
